

What's new in Paris?

Guerlain opens at the heart of the Marais beauty A short walk from the Places des Vosges, the famous perfumer has opened a new store dedicated to beauty. It's a first for this neighborhood, where the brand has never previously ventured before! Part private apartment, part loft, the 110 sq m store was designed by Patricia Grosdemange, Guerlain's favorite architect, to blend into the Marais' unique atmosphere. The sophisticated, contemporary decor with bags of light, open volumes and a wealth of materials has been subtly varied to match the store's different spaces. Dedicated to perfumes, Guerlain favorites, make-up, beauty care and relaxation, everything invites visitors to benefit from the brand's extensive expertise. A total sensory experience! Guerlain, 10, rue des Francs-Bourgeois, 3rd.

A dialogue between poetry and sculpture at Place Saint-Sulpice art This original exhibition organized by the "6^e, Ateliers d'artistes" association from mid-October onwards is dedicated to "A conversation between sculpture and poetry", with twelve artists invited to engage in a dialogue between the visual arts and the music of words. An open-air display of their monumental works on Place Saint Sulpice explores this vision of the meeting between sculpture and poetry. It's a perfect opportunity to interact with a unique setting. Saint-Germain and its long literary history while reflecting on the words of Zadkine: "The language of sculpture is pretentious nothingness if it does not speak of love and poetry". At the end of the exhibition, on November 20, 21 and 22, a discovery trail through the workshops of the association's artists will provide an opportunity to meet these creative talents.

"Lettre, sculpture et poesie".
October 15 to November 22.

The cake store of your dreams gourmet delights Setting itself the highest standards in its mission to satisfy its sweet-toothed customers, this store boasts a name that dreams are made of! The owner, Philippe Conticini, has made a triumphant return to the Paris scene with this appetizing store, which more than lives up to its promises. Pride of place goes to classic creations (Paris-Brest, Saint-Honore), seasonal desserts (tarte tatin and lemon pie), and fine pastries. Conticini revisits these recipes with daring and generosity to offer a multitude of flavors and textures, marrying crisp and smooth in a divine osmosis. These irresistible French delicacies are more than food, they're an art of living. Three cheers for the chef! La Pâtisserie des rêves, 93, rue du Bac, 7th.
